Qualitative Standards

Grade Point Average: Undergraduate students receiving financial aid are required to meet the minimum requirement for grade point average (GPA) per the standards set forth below.

In the first 60 credits of study, students must earn a minimum cumulative GPA of 1.75 to remain eligible for financial aid. After that, students must earn a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.00 to remain eligible for financial aid.

Students who fail to meet these FA-SAP requirements for two consecutive semesters will have their financial aid suspended. Students who fail to meet these FA-SAP requirements for two consecutive semesters will have their financial aid suspended.

- Students who now meet FA-SAP requirements will continue to receive financial aid.
- Students who pass all attempted credits and earn a semester GPA above a 2.30 may be eligible to continue to receive financial aid and remain on financial aid
